You Are Not Your Mind: Disidentification

The thinker

Constant stream of thoughts is separate from your true self.

Observing thoughts

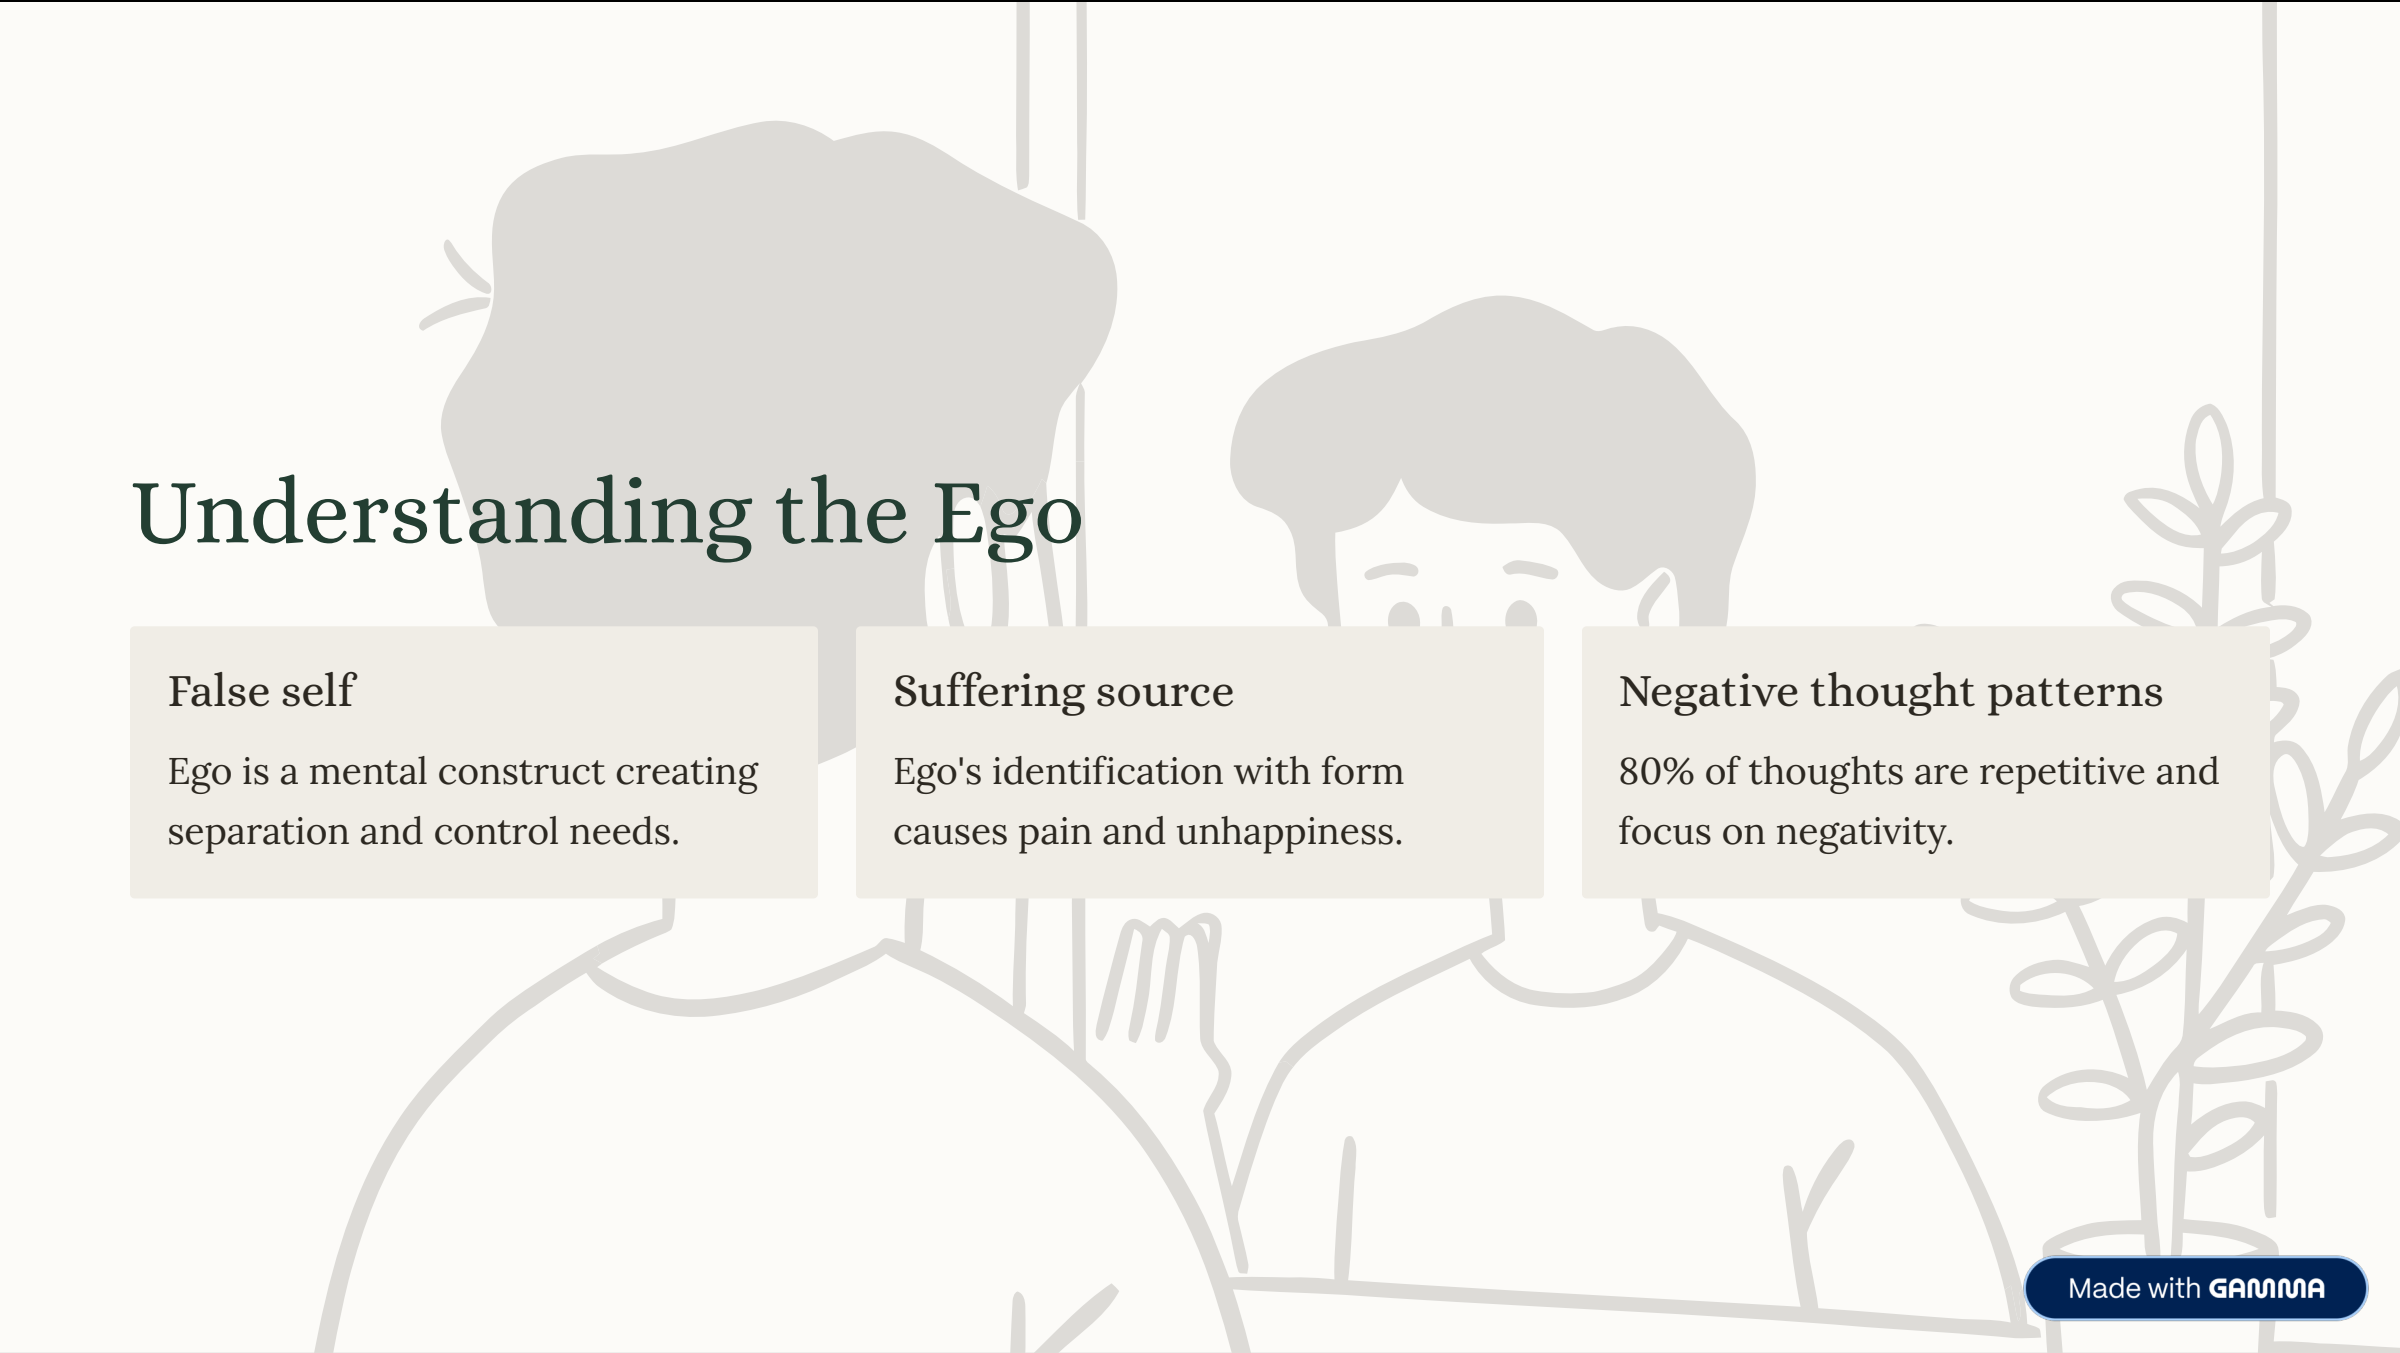

Notice thoughts without judgment, like watching clouds pass.

Pain-body awareness

Recognize emotional pain linked to past, without identifying with it.

Meditation practice

10 minutes daily to observe mind and disconnect from it.

The background features a faint, light gray illustration of two people in a garden. On the left, a person with dark, curly hair is shown from the back, looking towards the right. On the right, another person with dark hair is shown from the front, looking towards the left. They appear to be standing in a garden with some foliage and a fence or trellis in the background.

Understanding the Ego

False self

Ego is a mental construct creating separation and control needs.

Suffering source

Ego's identification with form causes pain and unhappiness.

Negative thought patterns

80% of thoughts are repetitive and focus on negativity.

The Present Moment: The Only Reality

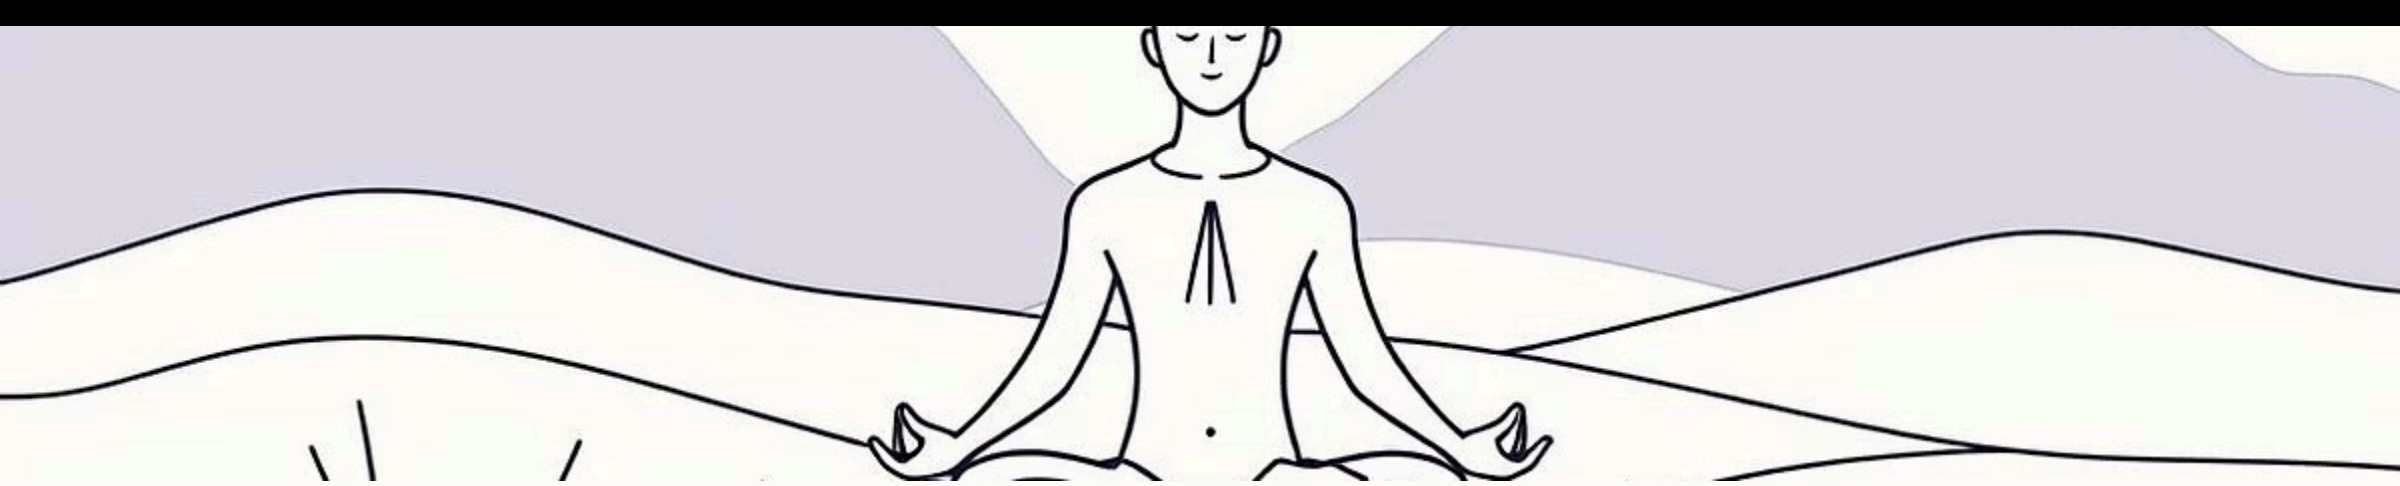

Illusion of time

Past and future exist only in the mind.

Peace is found by focusing on the Now.

Effects of time fixation

- 75% of worries about future are unfounded
- Regret comes from dwelling on the past

Acceptance of What Is: Surrender and Transformation

1

Power of acceptance

Resisting the present intensifies suffering.

2

Choose acceptance

"Accept the present moment as if chosen."

3

Inner peace foundation

Acceptance enables peace and opens paths to change.

4

Example situation

Face challenges without judgment, foster transformation.

Transforming Suffering Through Acceptance

Resistance hurts

Fighting reality worsens pain.

Acceptance heals

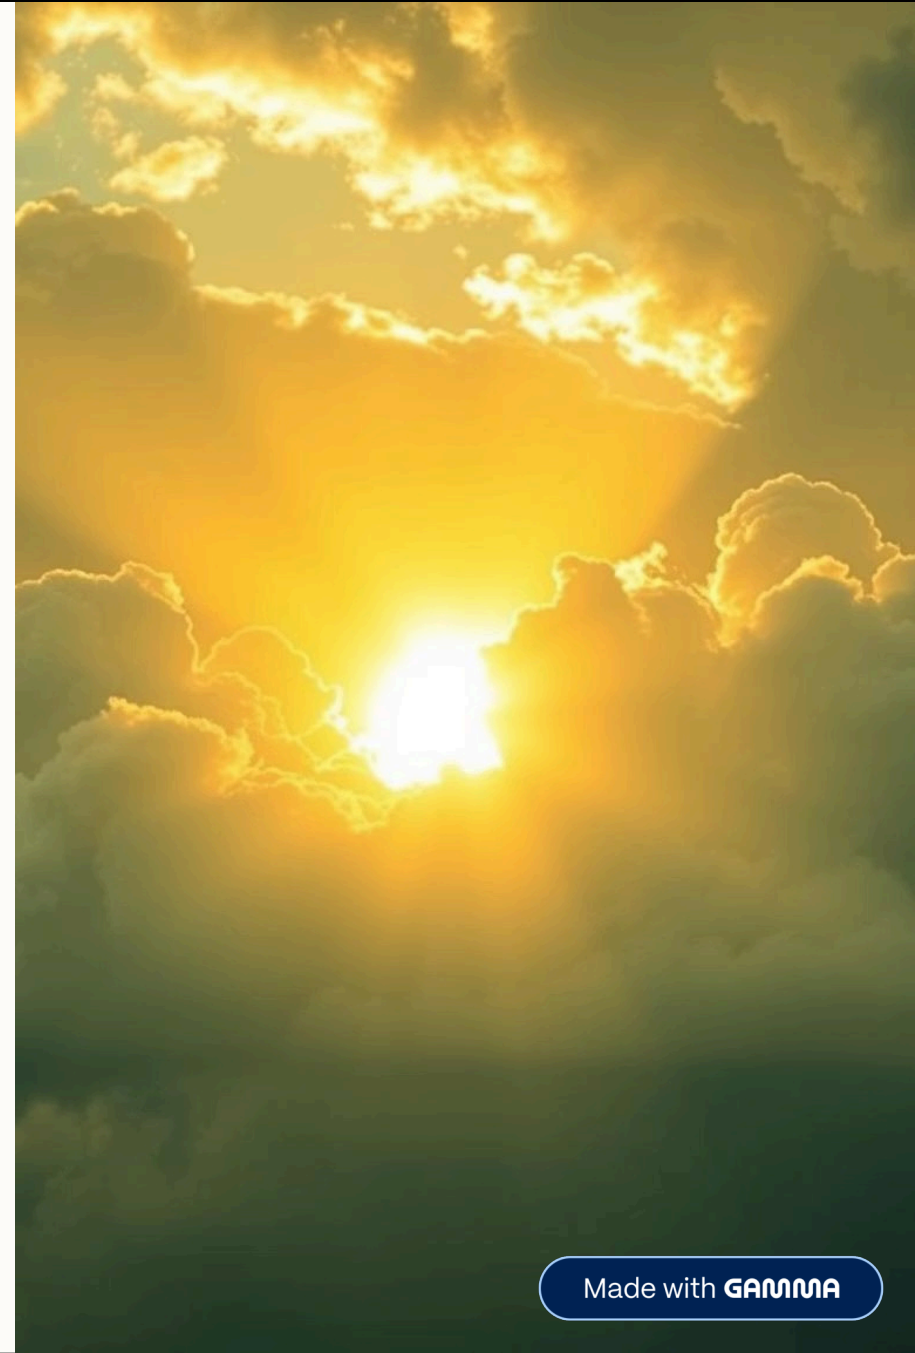

Welcoming situations eases suffering.

Growth opportunity

Challenges can spark learning and new paths.

Stress reduction

60% less stress with daily acceptance practice.
